

ass-tronomy

Written by bubba

Just opened up Wednesday's mail at the Nunnery household. Me? I got nothing. Rhonda, on the other hand, will be happy to know that the latest edition of Gynex has arrived. What's Gynex you ask? Well, I don't know. From the looks of it, it is an insider trade magazine that showcases the latest technological developments in the often not-so-pretty world of Gynecology. And what's the latest and greatest product in May 2006? Well, that I don't know either...because I was afraid to open it. But apparently the 'Stereoscopic Colposcope' (or Twat Binocs as I've coined) is the newest development in high-definition vagina viewing. Seriously, you could scope someone's tonsils with this thing...without them ever opening their mouth. Now in the stirrups you go...

Close Window