

spy devil

Written by bubba

It appears as though all my wondering of what hell may be like for the nun-murdering priest from Toledo may be in vain. As more details are made public, it seems less and less plausible that Father Gerald Robins was a legitimate man of the cloth and more and more likely that he was sent by Satan to infiltrate the Kingdom of the Lord. An undercover devil. Who knew?

"Robinson and others forced her to perform sexual acts and made her drink animal blood, "chanted satanic verses," and drew an upside down cross on her stomach in rituals held in the basement of St. Adalbert Catholic Church and in unspecified wooded areas."

Whoa. So now instead of wondering what his hell is going to look like for this guy, I'm wondering is anything bad really going to happen to him? He isn't getting into heaven...that's for sure. But could hell for this man in fact be an appealing concept? I think so. Upon his arrival to the world down under, he may not be taking the usual refreshing 'welcome-home' hot lava bath. In fact, he may instead find himself eligible for a promotion. Check it out:

- ✓ Torture animals
- ✓ Torture humans
- ✓ Drink blood
- ✓ Rape
- ✓ Kill nuns
- ✓ Credit the dark side for your work by using the appropriate tags...on the dead nun's forehead – check, check

See what I mean? Good for Satan. This guy has upper-management written all over him.
